
1987 944 For Sale

Posted by dwebb944t - 2008/08/14 22:29

Hi All,

I have a white 1987 944 for sale, 2500.00 OBO, runs great, phone dials, have records from previos two owners, has momo wheel. 200K+ miles but has had two rebuilds in history. Open diff. Completely stock.

This is a great 944-spec candidate, runs strong. I put a new spring centered clutch in a year ago/10K miles, new throw-out bearing etc...

Has replaced radiator and runs cool.

Ask Joe P., Steve S, Norm H., about me, I know a little about 944-spec and these cars, I might have even had a hand in starting this thing :)

Dan,
Was this your street car for the past couple years?

Yes, drove back and forth from Mesa to Scottsdale. A/C is even ice cold. I have lots of records from previous owner, however I can't find any records of the radiator being changed, it runs cooler than any other 944 I have owned. I just bought a new 2008 Liberty (the new Cherokee), thought you be interested in that since I know you are a Cherokee guy like me :)

Well,

I was a Jeep guy. I got married, have a daughter..... thing change.. Hey I am not complaining as at least I got to keep the race car and still race. :lol:

Good luck with the sale! :)

BTW... Dan Webb is a 944 spec "Founding Father". If you like 944 spec say "Thanks Dan" as without his initial leadership this class would still be a "Cool idea" that never happened. B)

Your Welcome, your car looks like my racecar that I sold. I am interested where that care went, it was an 87 originally burgandy, I repainted it silver, the front and rear bumper pads were removed and it had cookie cutters on it, it was a non-sunroof car, last I heard it went to CA.

My 87 needs to go by mid-Sept. so someone needs to come get it.

Joe, as you know I have a daughter also (6 and in 1st grade), she used to hang out at the track when she was a baby, I got rid of the racecar and bought a Jeep, I guess you figured out how to go the opposite direction :)

Dan,

Your old racecar is still owned by the two guys you sold it to. Jim was driving it for bit on and off. Mostly off. Then Steve started driving lately. I think it still wears the decals you put on it years ago.

As for keeping my car... Well I got lucky in that it was built and I have a place to store it. As such it costs me nothing to just hold on to. It has been reliable so operating costs have been very manageable.

Joe,

That's great to hear about my old racecar, I am glad it' still in AZ, it was a fast car. I moved on to a new hobby, Flying, I got my Private Pilot License about a year ago and have been loving it. Sedona for breakfast and Tucson for Lunch!

I need to get rid of this 944 as it is just sitting, it's not quite nice enough for a touring car but solid for a spec car, I will post it on autotrader next week if none of you guys want it.

Dan
