two items

1. I watched the IRL race this weekend and was wondering if that is the configuration we will run in November?
2. It looks like my trip this year will be the november Infineon race. I would love to make the porsche at the point but toomuch is going on in October for me to make it.

ken has stated he will not be there in November (maybe next year ken) Looks like Litespeed will be there. Who else is planning on it?

I am working on bringing some Utah guys. What will the weather be like and my wife is coming with me as we plan to spend some time in wine country. where should be go?

Hi Todd,

You will not be running the IRL configuration. They were using 9a and 11a when I was watching them at the practice.

You should be running the course in the dark line of this picture. Sometimes we run 7 or the longer 7a configuration.
