All the headlight stuff has been gutted so the lightbar is definitely the better choice. I have run enduros with Steve Agoston in his 944 and he has a complete front bumper with lights attached that can be changed in about 10 minutes. It only takes two bolts to remove front bumper.

The car will handle a larger than me driver (6' 225lbs). If you go to the aluminum seat it can be mounted almost on the floor and that provides plenty of head room.

I am out of town till Tuesday on a ski trip.

Vehicle is located in Atascadero 200 miles north of LA.

Where are you located?

The tank can be swapped for a late tank, but it's not simple, the trans mount & crossmember must be swapped as well - involves some cutting, and fabricating.
