

Power Steering pump rebuild.

Posted by State2Cab - 06 Sep 2016 05:30

My new project is to stop the oil leak... I think it is actually the power steering pump gasket behind the pulley. Anyone have any advice on this? Are there special tools for removing the belt?

I have a new set of seals for this project ready to go, but not sure where to start.

Thanks in advance!

-Chris

Re: Power Steering pump rebuild.

Posted by rd7839 - 07 Sep 2016 06:35

Well, this might be the wrong place to ask because most, if not all of us run without power steering.

When I first started racing the 944 was just after shoulder surgery however so I kept mine in for a while and did have to rebuild the pump and lines. I don't remember it being anything too tricky and no special tools required.
