

Utah Engine Builder

Posted by Bamf3000 - 12 Jul 2011 22:12

I am looking at getting my engine rebuilt and would really like to get it done by Bennington but don't like the idea of spending $1k on shipping a motor. Anyone have a porsche builder that they HIGHLY recommend locally that won't charge a ridiculous amount of money? Or does anyone happen to have some hook ups on shipping? lol

Thanks!

=====

Re: Utah Engine Builder

Posted by GT944 - 17 Jul 2011 23:15

You might give Mark Russel a call at RSR Motorsports - he was who we had intended to have do our motor rebuild on the white 944S - I don't know how much he would charge but he would be very thorough. Also, you might try Sam Kapp - Kapp's European, down in your neighborhood. I haven't used Sam personally, but Otto Silva recommends him and I think he is worth taking a look at. Or possibly Bob Bowen - Concours Autowerks - he works on dads car from time to time and I think he is capable and honest. There is also Garrity, who runs Motorsport.

No idea on cost with any of these guys, but it would be worth it to call them up and see.

=====